Leo Frederick Dick

Leo Frederick Dick, 76, of Freetown, died at 10 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 13, at a residence in Brownstown.

He was of Pentecostal faith, and a truck driver for several years. He also worked at Dicksons, Inc., in Seymour five years, and at Hobby restaurant in Bedford 19 years. He was a World War II veteran of the U.S. Navy.

He was born March 11, 1925, at Jasper, a son of the late William Dick and Emma Stenftenagel Dick. He married the former Carolyn Shelton, and she survives in Brownstown.

Also surviving are two sons, Larry Dick of Newburg and Ed Dick of Princeton; two daughters, Beverly Brown of Oneida, Wash., and Carol Goldman of Princeton; two sisters, Mary Ann Gehlhausen and Betty Lechner, both of Jasper; three step-children, Dannie Cornett of Brownstown, Barbara Vojkufka of Crothersville, and Tammy temple of Seymour; six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren, and five step-grandchildren, Jason Cornett, Justin Cornett, Harold Temple, and Johnathan Temple, all of Seymour, and Caleb Cornett of Brownstown.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Bonita Diane Dick, and three brothers, and a sister.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, Dec. 15, at Zabel Funeral Home in Brownstown, with Bro. Jerry Miles officiating. Burial, with graveside military rites, was at Fairview Cemetery.
