John Logan Holeman, Brownstown, Expires

John Logan Holeman, 73, a resident of Brownstown most of his life where he was widely known and well liked, died Friday night at the Robert Long Hospital, Indianapolis. He had been ill for only three days, entering the hospital Wednesday, but had been in failing health for several months.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the Winklepleck Funeral Home in Brownstown with the Rev. Leighton Norris, pastor of the Brownstown Baptist Church, in charge. Burial in Fairview Cemetery, Brownstown.

Friends may call after 7 o'clock tonight at the Winklepleck Funeral Home.

Mr. Holeman was born April 22, 1879, in Iowa, the son of the late William Pleasnt and Nancy Ellington Holeman. He was married May 25, 1902, in Brownstown to Lizzie Marie Clark, who survives. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last May. He was a member of the Baptist Church and was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends. He was well known to Brownstown young people, and was a man of pleasant disposition.

Besides the widow, he is survived by two children: Riley Holeman, of Brownstown, and Mrs. Jessie Barnes, of Chicago and three grandchildren.
