Lawson Huckleberry, Former B. & O. Crossing Watchman, Succumbs

Death came suddenly Monday morning to Lawson Huckleberry, a resident of Brownstown for the past half-century and for many years watchman at the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad crossing at Ewing.

Mr. Huckleberry had been in excellent health and on Sunday had been in Salem to attend funeral rites for a friend, and news of his death came as a shock to his many friends in this community.

A native of Washington county, Mr. Huckleberry was born February 14, 1878, a son of the late John H. and Sarah Carter Huckleberry. He spent his boyhood and early manhood in the Salem community, moving to Brownstown fifty years ago, and until his retirement a few years ago was a section employee of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and for many years watched the crossing at the Ewing depot.

He was married, in Washington county, on June 29, 1899, to Sarah A. Fleenor, who survives as does a son, Claude Huckleberry, of New Philadelphia, Washington county, and two daughters, Mrs. Clyde Knight and Mrs. Jessie Knight, both residents of Salem. He also leaves thirteen grandchildren and eighteen great-grandchildren.

He was a member of the Brownstown Christian Church and last rites were held there this afternoon at 2 o'clock, following short services at the Huckleberry residence. Gene Dulin, Christian pastor, was in charge and interment was in Fairview Cemetery.
