Heart Attack Fatal To Charles P. McCrary— Burial Rites Here

Charles P. McCrary, of Indianapolis, native of Brownstown and a brother of James McCrary and Clyde McCrary, here, died Friday at Methodist Hospital, Indianapolis, following a coronary attack suffered three days earlier.

Funeral rites were held Monday afternoon at the Barth Place Methodist Church in Indianapolis, followed by burial in Fairview Cemetery in Brownstown.

Mr. McCrary, who was 59 years old, was born July, 1896, in Brownstown, the son of the late Samuel and Evelyn Clark McCrary. He was married here in 1917 to Wilmeth Hamilton, who survives. The family moved from Brownstown to Indianapolis thirty-three years ago. Mr. McCrary was a barber by occupation.

Surviving in addition to the widow and two brothers here are seven children, four sons and three daughters. They are James O. McCrary, William McCrary, Albert McCrary, Thomas McCrary, Misses Betty, Marjorie and Mary Ann McCrary, all residents of Indianapolis.

A sister, Mrs. R. C. Jackson, of Lebanon, also survives.
