Mrs. Prince had been suffering with an abdominal tumor for some time. About five weeks ago her suffering became so intense that on July 23rd, she was taken to the St. Joseph hospital, where she underwent an operation Thursday, but due to her weakened condition, she could not withstand the shock from the operation.

Effie Estella Bolling was born in Monroe township, Washington county, Indiana, February 12, 1883, and was one of six children born to James Allen and Mary Weir Bolling. She was the last surviving member of the family. She attended the common school in Monroe township and also attended the Vallonia high school two terms, when her parents moved to the state of Washington, where they resided about four years. After their return to Washington county, Mrs. Prince attended business college and for several years was employed as a stenographer in Indianapolis.

On August 10, 1918, she was married to Henry H. Prince, a Brownstown attorney, since which time she (Continued to Page Twelve)

Mrs. Prince was prominent in the state Republican organization and state women's club work. She was a member of the board of trustees and treasurer of the state Federation of Women's Clubs. She was a member of the Brownstown Presbyterian church. She was also a charter member of the Brownstown Study Club, The Gen. Jacob Brown chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Jackson Co. Bar Association, The Eastern Star, Professional and Business Women's Club, and a member of the Brownstown library board.

Representatives of all the organizations of which she was a member, were represented at the funeral, some attending in a body.

Mrs. Prince was one of the few women attorneys of Indiana and was the local attorney for the B. & O. railroad. Several years ago she was appointed probation officer for Jackson county, which office she held at the time of her death.

She was active in Republican politics. She was vice-chairman of the Jackson county Republican committee and went as a delegate to the Republican national convention at Kansas City. She leaves no immediate relatives, her husband having died September 9, 1921.

Funeral services, which were largely attended, were held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the Rev. Lucien V. Rule, of Goshen, Ky., formerly local pastor, in charge. Burial in Fairview cemetery.

The Order of the Eastern Star had charge of the services at the cemetery.
