Comment: Daughter of Thomas Boyatt

The Death Angel.

After an illness of six months or more, Miss Ora Lee Boyatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Boyatt, was called from hence away on Monday night at 11 o'clock, and is now a dweller in that land of pure delight, "where sickness, sorrow, pain and death are feared and felt no more." Her disease was dropsy of the heart, with which she was seized last December, and from which she suffered severely until relieved by death. She bore her affliction with calm resignation, placing her trust in Jesus, who she felt would safely lead her "through the valley and shadow of death" unto a haven of blissful rest beyond. She was an attractive child, kind, loving and amiable in disposition, and the hearts of the parents bleed in anguish now that she is no more of earth. Her age was 13 years, 5 months and 12 days. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, with services at the M. E. Church, conducted by Rev. V. W. Tevis, after which the remains were deposited in the new cemetery.

We are requested by Mr. and Mrs. Boyatt to tender their heartfelt thanks to the many friends for their kind attention during the illness of their child and at her death and funeral.
