DEATH OF A WIFE.

It is our sad duty this week to chronicle the death of one of our most highly esteemed ladies, Mrs. Georgia A. Samples, wife of J. W. Samples, who departed this life on Thursday night last, at about 11 o'clock. She had long been a sufferer from consumption, and she bore her illness without a murmur. Her maiden name was Smith, and she was born at Clarksburg, Ross County, Ohio, where she resided until she had grown to womanhood, and where she united with the M. E. Church while young. She was married to John W. Samples May 10th, 1873. She was the mother of five children—three boys and two girls—all of whom survive her, except one boy. She had six sisters and two brothers, but the two brothers and one sister have passed away. Her father and mother also survive her. Mrs. Samples was beloved and respected by all who knew her, and one and all deeply mourn her departure. The funeral took place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, with impressive services at the residence conducted by Rev. Thos. Harrison, after which the remains were lain away to rest in the new cemetery.
